Retiring President Stresses Importance to City of W. Center-st Paving Project

Karl W. Schell is the new president of the Marion Real Estate Board, succeeding E. H. Cowan, who served during 1926. He was installed with other officers of the organization at the annual meeting at noon today at Hotel Harding.

Other officers installed include Ralph T. Lewis, vice president, and Walter E. Schaffner, secretary and treasurer. Three directors, together with E. H. Cowan, J. Wilbur Jacoby, Stewart G. Glasener and William T. Jones, make up the directorate.

Mr. Cowan is the local board's member of the state executive committee and Mr. Glasener is the board's member of the national committee.

Summarizes Work

Following the installation of officers retiring President Cowan briefly summarized the year's activity.

Emphasizing the need for increasing W. Center-st Mr. Cowan declared "the proposed postponement of the work of paving the street should not take place unless it can be clearly shown to all the people of Marion that it is absolutely necessary."

Outstanding among the board's accomplishments for the year Mr. Cowan pointed out, were the steps taken by the organization to obtain a revision of the weed ordinance lines designated in the ordinance passed by council to do in the city into six new wards.

Among other things Mr. Cowan cited the board's co-operation with the Marion Chamber of Commerce in the promotion of all projects beneficial to the city's welfare, establishment of a weekly real estate page in The Marion Star, initiation of the movement to reserve W. Center-st and arrangements for a series of educational meetings to be addressed by speakers supplied by the Ohio State Association of Real Estate Boards.

President's Report

Mr. Cowan's report as presiding officer during 1926 follows:

"It may be helpful to the board to call to mind some of its activities during the last year. Several matters of importance have arisen, and been acted upon in one way or another. We should feel gratified that the past year's work of the Real Estate Board has been of considerable value to our city, as well as profitable and interesting to our members.

"The board has continued its association with the Chamber of Commerce in many matters. The policy of our

Columbus Police Continue To Arrest Drivers With 1926 Licenses

HOME BUILDING REVIVAL SEEN HERE IN 1927

Permits for Eight Dwellings First Evidence of Increased Residence Construction

The first evidence that increased activity and development in the real estate business is to take place in Marion this year, developed at the office of Harry Scherer, yesterday, when C. A. Smith, local realtor and builder, took out permits for construction of eight modern dwellings.

Four of the new houses are to be located on E. Walnut-st, two on Windsor and two on Delaware. They will be of frame construction and complete according to design and all of the four estimated cost of each is placed at $6,000.

15 Years in Work

Mr. Smith who has been engaged in the real estate business here about 15 years and whose building operations during that time have been extensive, states that he anticipates a big demand for new homes here during 1927. "I would go ahead with plans for building from 20 to 25 dwellings of the character would be arranged," he said yesterday when the eight permits were issued. "There is every indication that the demand for new homes will be heavy in Marion this year."

Funds Limited

While funds for building operations were reported to be rather limited during the latter part of 1926, local bankers and building and loan association officials expect an improvement in the situation early this year so that it will be possible to take care of practically all applications for mortgage loans.

Other local builders join Mr. Smith in taking an optimistic view of prospects for 1927 and are already planning construction programs.

SENATE CALLS FOR DATA ON POISONED ALCOHOL

Resolution Demands Correspondence Between Secretary Mellon and Wheeler

Washington, Jan. 4—The controversy over the government's action in "poisoning" the supply of moonshine alcohol continued unabated today when the senate adopted a resolution calling on the secretary of the treasury for all available information on the subject.

The resolution, sponsored by Senator Edwards, Democrat, of New Jersey, asked for copies of all correspondence between Secretary Mellon and Wayne B. Wheeler, dry generalissimo, "bearing on the poisoning of industrial alcohol."

If further asked for the department's regulations for poisoning the alcohol and the "formulas prepared and prescribed by the department for such purpose."

Dry leaders did not object to the resolution, but Senator Sheppard, Democrat, of Texas, protested against the use of the word "poisoning."

"It's incorrect," said Sheppard. "You can't poison poison."

TIME EXTENSION CAUSES SLUMP IN TAG DEMAND

Rush for 1927 Auto Licenses Dwindles When Officials Grant More Time

4,000 WITHOUT PLATES

Sheriff Deal Refuses To Recognize 1926 Tags on Marion County Highways

Announcement that local police authorities have decided not to make any arrests this week for use of 1926 automobile licenses resulted in an immediate slump in sales at the Marion Auto Club, where the annual distribution of license plates is in progress.

Today there was a notable absence of the rush which prevailed at the distributing agency for more than a week, the number of applicants for licenses not being at any one time during the day averaging more than 10 or 12. Yesterday the Auto Club office was shut down the opening at 8 o'clock in the morning until the doors were closed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and the throng generally filled the lobby on the outside as well.

1,000 Unlicensed

Today Mgr. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the club, who is in charge of the distribution, said that there are still about 1,000 licenses to be issued and that unless the sales continue on the high average maintained during the past week, it will be impossible to complete the undertaking before Saturday afternoon.

Yesterday Mayor Hazen, acting as spokesman for local police authorities, announced that they had agreed upon fixing Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock as a deadline for 1926 license plates. No arrests will be made on the motorcars but the matter remarked significantly that after Saturday, "no excuses will be accepted."

Deal's Attitude

Sheriff James A. Deal, who stated yesterday that he would not permit use of 1926 license, unless instructions for an extension of time came from state headquarters, said today that he had no intention of having his plans conflict with those of the city authorities. He announces that he will pay no attention to violations of the license regulations inside the city of Marion but will not give his consent to the use of 1926 plates on cars travelling on roads throughout the county.

Last night a representative of one of the license distributing agencies operating in three villages in Marion County is reported to have come to the city and placed licenses on sale in an uptown store room.

"Contrary To Rules"

This is contrary to rules of the state department, according to a message received at the Marion Auto Club office this morning from Chalmers R. Wilson, state commissioner of motor vehicles. Mr. Wilson stated that licenses can not lawfully be issued from any place in the city of Marion aside from the Marion Auto Club office.

Other authorized distribution points in the county are in Green Camp, Caledonia and LaRue.

Bird-McGinnis Post Home Practically Assured With Completion of Finance Plan

Legion Executive Committee Contracts with Insurance Company for Money Raising Arrangement; Provides for Issuance of Insurance Savings Certificates; Goal $20,000

As a result of negotiations consummated last night by the executive committee of Bird McGinnis Post, No. 102, of the American Legion, it is believed that Marion is certain to have a Legion home before the close of the year.

The movement for purchase or building of a home, which has been in progress for more than a year took definite form last night when the executive committee entered into a contract with a well known insurance company for a financing plan which is expected to provide funds needed for consummation of the project.

Provisions of Plan

The plan provides for issuance of insurance savings certificates to citizens of Marion who will be asked to support the enterprise.

Marion residents are not to be asked for cash contributions, but merely to open savings accounts which they agree to maintain for a stipulated period of years. When the accounts are opened, certificates are to be issued giving the depositors insurance up to the total that they agree to save. On all accounts opened, the Legion will be paid a percentage commission and it is this revenue which is expected to provide funds for the new Legion home.

Post Slogan

In launching the campaign Bird McGinnis post has adopted as its slogan, "We saved for you, you save for us." This catchword phrase will be used in all of the advertising and other publicity matter used in connection with the drive, which will extend throughout the city.

The city has been divided into districts and a member of the Legion named as captain to have charge of the canvass in his respective locality.

$20,000 Goal

Bird McGinnis post has set $20,000 as its goal but the building or purchase of a home will be secured, it was stated today, when $10,000 has been raised. The organization now has approximately $4,000 on hand as a nucleus.

In announcing plans for the campaign and details of the insurance savings proposition, A. W. Sandrock, commander of Bird-McGinnis Post, said today that although the Legion home is to be the headquarters of the local World War Veterans organization, it

CONFESSES HE BEAT TO DEATH MOTHER-IN-LAW

Real Estate Salesman Reveals Guilt After Grilling of Six Hours

Hempstead, N. Y., Jan. 4—Harold E. Webster, real estate salesman, of Miami, Fla. confessed today that it was he who yesterday beat to death Mrs. Catherine Gallaway, wealthy 65-year-old widow—his mother in law.

Webster killed his mother-in-law because she had threatened to cause her daughter, Mrs. Blanche Webster, to start divorce proceedings, he told the authorities.

Mrs. Gallaway was found clubbed to death at the home of another son-in-law, Dr. Dell Clair Bassett, yesterday morning. In her hand she clutched a man's suit. This, and a strand of a man's suit. This, and a strand of a man's hair, were the only clews upon which the police had to work.

Laughs and Talks

Webster was arraigned today before Justice of the Peace Walter R. Jones in Hempstead police court and was held without bail for action of the grand jury. Webster talked and laughed with detectives.

The police planned to take Webster to the Bassett home to search for the iron tool with which Mrs. Gallaway's head was crushed.

Webster's wife was in a state of collapse.

Six Hour Grilling

Webster was arrested last midnight, and his confession, made after more than six hours of grilling, was made public this morning by District Attorney Edwards, of Nassau County, Long Island. According to Edwards, Webster said he killed his mother-in-law with the automobile fire chain tool because she had threatened to induce her daughter to try to divorce him.

For hours Webster stoutly maintained his innocence. Then, after unendurable police grilling, he requested that he be allowed to write to his mother, Mrs. Alice Garrison, of Brooklyn. She was in an adjoining room at police headquarters, but Webster did not know this. He wrote the following letter to her:

"Dear Mother: I have gone far enough in regard to this murder and have confessed everything. Please, dear ma, tell them everything I have told you. Also give them the other pair of blue trousers and everything else that you have that bears blood stains. I hope forgive me, ma, and don't worry. So far, they have treated me fine. Lovingly, your son, Harold."

Was Estranged

District Attorney Edwards made public the letter, but did not give out the text of the confession.

Police said Webster had been estranged from his wife, and that his mother-in-law had been opposed to a reconciliation. She had also opposed his having the custody of the Websters' 5-year-old child.

PAT'S EVERY MOVEMENT IS TRACED BY AGENTS

Sensational Developments May Be Uncovered Later in Day, Is Claim

Cleveland, Jan. 4—Every movement of Patrick McDermott, convicted Christmas eve of the murder of Don R. Mellett, former publisher of the Canton Daily News, has been traced from the time of the murder to the day of his arrest by federal agencies, seeking to clear up the mystery, it was learned by International News Service here today.

This information was given out by Howell Leuck, assistant U. S. district attorney, who declared that sensational developments might be expected later in the day.

Two police officials of Cleveland were closeted with U. S. District Attorney Bernstein this morning. It was understood that the parley was in connection with the movements of Ben Rudner, to go on trial Feb. 7 for participation in the crime and Dan Pfaff, who is alleged to have harbored McDermott for several months following the crime.

"We now know the exact movements of McDermott, who arranged for his hiding place and who paid for the upkeep," Leuck declared.

"This will be of immense value in running down other angles which are about to be solved."

SCHOOL BOARD OFFICERS ARE ALL RE-ELECTED

Frank C. Gegenheimer Continues as President; Hector S. Young Renamed Clerk

REPORTS ARE SUBMITTED

Show City Institutions Are Operating Successfuly on "Pay-As-You-Go" Basis

F. C. Gegenheimer, Hector S. Young and Mrs. F. H. King were re-elected officers of the Board of Education at the annual organization meeting last night. Mr. Gegenheimer continues as president, Mrs. King as vice president and Young as clerk. This is the fourth consecutive year this group of officers has served. V. C. Smith and Mrs. S. M. Midgley were unable to attend last night's session, which was late in getting started.

The board also reappointed S. H. DeLong for another term of seven years on the Library Board, members of which are appointed by the Board of Education to handle the business of the Public Library.

Presents Reports

Supt. J. H. Mason had a series of reports and statements drawn up to present to the board last night, showing the condition of school finances, both on the indebtedness side and the current expense and income. These reports show that the city schools are operating successfully on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

On Jan 1 the balance in the school treasury to carry the schools through the month of January was $12,825. This sum will carry the schools until the county auditor turns over the money on the February settlement of taxes, it was pointed out. For the information of board members Superintendent Mason detailed all the budget items, expenditures and balances in the various departments, and showed how the budget was being used to control expenditures.

Contrasts Costs

In another report Superintendent Mason contrasted school costs in Marion with those in other cities, on a cost per pupil basis. Marion schools operated at a lower cost per pupil in all except three items, maintenance, fixed charges and debt service, in comparison with 124 other cities of approximately the same population. In this report Superintendent Mason said:

"You will note that school costs in Marion last year were decidedly under the average costs for the 124 cities in the report of the Research Bureau of the National Educational Association in all items except maintenance, fixed charges and debt service. The amount under fixed charges is high since it carried insurance premiums for all buildings for a three year period. Extensive plumbing, heating and building repairs explain the maintenance costs, while large bonded indebtedness answers for the figure under debt service."

Debt Service

Debt service in Marion, which means the funds set aside for bond retirement and interest, is lower, however, than in three other cities near Marion in population, Warren, Elyria and Niles each have much larger charges for interest and sinking fund than Marion. Lima is the only city out of four selected with a lower debt service charges per pupil.

Superintendent Mason also presented a report showing in detail the debt situation, and outlining the payments which must be made on the present debt for the next 22 years, when the last of the present bonds expire. Within the next three years this report shows, the bonded debt of the schools will be reduced more than $200,000. On Jan. 1, 1927, the bonded debt of the schools was $890,000, the report shows. On Jan. 1, 1930, this will have been cut to $667,000, with a corresponding decrease in the semi-annual payments on interest and sinking fund.

Debt Drops

From 1930 to 1936 the bonded debt of the school drops from $667,000 to $407,000, with a decrease in charges yearly, of from $103,433 on Jan. 1, 1927, to $66,333 on Jan. 1, 1935.

These figures, of course, are based on the present debt, and will be in effect only if no more bonds are issued for buildings, the report showed.

"A H, 'diplomatic car' again," commented Washington, on reading of the wreck in the next morning's newspapers.

The fact that it was a "diplomatic car" explained everything.

It was painful and nothing to be surprised about.

• • •

"DIPLOMATIC cars" are the pests of the capital.

Diplomats and all members of their personal and official families are in none from arrest.

It isn't a matter of law but of international usage. Probably a diplomat who committed burglary or murder would find himself in trouble, but for little peccadilloes like violation of the dry law or traffic regulations nobody thinks of holding him accountable.

• • •

ANYBODY might think a well brought up diplomat would be extra careful not to abuse privileges.

Such may be the case with some, but certainly not with all of them.

Especially is "diplomatic auto" speeding the curse of Washington.

When it's considered that there are more than 50 embassies and legations there, each with a staff of ten or a dozen, or around 500 automobiles who are entitled to run as wild as they please, and who mostly do please running wild, it's easy to realize why the prudent Washingtonian hunts his hole when he sees a car coming with the throttle wide open and an individual who looks as if he might be a diplomat or a near diplomat at the steering wheel.

• • •

A LIST of narrow escapes from "diplomatic cars" would fill a volume the size of an unabridged dictionary.

"Diplomatic cars" are held up often enough by the traffic cops, but that's all the good it does.

The driver simply produces his card and hands it haughtily to the bluecoat. The policeman takes one glance at the engraved crest on it, apologizes, salutes and the juggernaut vanishes. Or miles an hour, honking madly, with pedestrians scurrying for their lives and other machines clearing the way in fairer the panic the fire department would create responding to a call to save the national Capitol from destruction.

Bad luck that comes from seeing the new moon over your left shoulder is as trivial as the incident.

BRITAIN LIFTS SECRECY VEIL ON WAR SHIPS

Pictures of Latest British Battleships Finally Published After Three Years

London, Jan. 4 — The British Admiralty, after allowing the naval world to wonder for nearly three years, has at last allowed the veil of secrecy surrounding the construction of the two new British battleships Nelson and Rodney to be partly lifted.

In "Jane's Fighting Ships," the famous naval annual, the first authentic photographs of the new vessels are to be published, revealing them to be extraordinary looking craft, resembling over grown monitors.

The Nelson, for instance will have the largest turrets in the world, with her first turret built for a maximum range of 25 miles, the forecastle of the vessel will be 100 feet long, or more than half the length of the ship.

Novel Structure

The Nelson and Rodney will be totally unlike existing battleships rather a bridge. They are designed entirely new type of battleship to meet way to meet type of battleship to meet way to meet a special structure, something after the style of a castle keep, and resembling a cathedral tower in silhouette or a Chinese pagoda.

The photographs reveal that the British Navy has now adopted the triple turret style of gun-mounting. The guns on the Nelson and Rodney will be carried in three triple turrets, each accommodating three sixteen inch guns forward. The two ships will be our most powerful.

When completed they will be armed with only twelve, but these 16-inch guns have the speed projectiles at present revealed that when they back in action they will make up in hitting power.

Other Ships

Other ships show that Britain is not the only first class power altering the outlines of her warships. The latest addition of new Italian warships with sixteen-thirty inch guns, instead of twelve inch.

The Japanese battleship Mutsu has [illegible] guns, but the new Japanese battleship Nagato is another matter, with eight guns mounted in a novel trunk in the forecastle.

Details are also given in the annual of the new American and British ten-thousand ton armored cruisers. The passage between the two types of vessels indicate that the American type is much superior to the British.

SMITH'S OPPONENTS TO OPEN FIGHT AT ONCE

Proposal To Bar Illinois Appointee Takes New Turn in Senate

Washington, Jan. 4 — The proposal to bar Senator designate Frank L. Smith, Republican, of Illinois, from the senate took a new turn today with his opponents prepared to open fire on him at once.

Without waiting upon Smith to definitely accept or reject the appointment, Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, announced he would open debate on the appointment this afternoon.

McKellar was expected to oppose the seating of Smith as the successor to the late Sen. William B. McKinley and to base his exclusion from the senate.

Smith's delay in announcing his intentions and his present dilatory tactics caused his opposition to decide on carrying the fight to him instead of waiting for him to present his credentials here. As the debate threatens to block all other business, administration leaders have sent urgent messages to the Illinois man, urging him either to accept the appointment or to come to Washington at once and "face the music."

Leaders of the opposition meanwhile predicted they would command sufficient votes to bar Smith at the door by refusing him the right to take his oath of office.

Galion Representative Introduces Bill in House; Make Nov. 11 Legal Holiday

Columbus, Jan. 4—Following a joint session of the house and senate, scheduled for 11 a. m. today, when the state vote of the last election will be canvassed, the houses of the Ohio legislature were to hold separate sessions today.

In the house, the representatives will consider for second reading and reference to committees five house bills and one house joint resolution, introduced late Monday.

The joint resolution provides for the submission of an amendment to the voters making the offices of secretary of state, attorney general and state treasurer appointive by the governor subject to senate confirmation. It was introduced by Horace Keifer, Springfield.

Old Age Bill

Representative C. F. Esse, Galion, introduced a bill providing for old age pension of $300 per year to persons 70 years old or older who have been state residents for 15 years or more and whose annual income is $500 a year or less and whose money and property does not exceed $2,500. The bill is sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Recodification of laws relating to bond issues by taxing subdivisions as recommended by a joint committee on economy and taxation, was provided in a bill offered by E. H. Krenger, Cleveland.

Three others were offered by Keifer. One would make Nov. 11, Armistice Day, a legal holiday; another would limit the amount of garnishee deductions of 10 per cent of the amount earned during the last 30 days and the third would make photographic copies legal in recording official documents.

C. D. Zellers Charged with Contempt of Court in $25,000 Damage Suit

Dayton, Jan. 4—Trial of C. D. Zellers, accused of contempt of court as the result of a lawsuit against J. E. Watts, state dry officer, for $25,000 has been continued to Jan. 31 by Judge Alfred McCain.

Zellers is the head of the Dayton branch of the Anti-Saloon League. It is said to have instituted a raid at the home of V. R. Rector a juror hearing the case against Watts for the purpose of intimidating him.

The jury failed to reach a verdict after the case on the Rochm house. Watts was sued by Mrs. Laura Robinson, colored, who alleged that she received injuries at the hands of Watts during a raid which resulted in the death of her unborn babe, resulting in a serious operation.

Dorothy Arzner Rewarded for Work as Film Editor

Dorothy Arzner

HAVING cut and edited "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides," two successful motion pictures the organization which produced them has for the first time in its history made a woman a director. The woman is Miss Dorothy Arzner. She is the first woman in the industry to learn to be given the directorial phone and the first in Paramount history. She has been given a long contract.

When Miss Arzner was a little girl her father operated a cafe in Los Angeles which was the rendezvous of many of the film celebrities. She heard much about the work of the movies. Later she went to the Paramount studio asking for a chance to enter the work, and at her own request, began by reading scripts.

She rose from script girl to scenario writer, then returned to cutting and her most recent achievement, which is said to be one of the most perfect examples of film editing in history, on "Old Ironsides," was a directorship was her reward.

Her first work in her new field is as his directing Esther Ralston in "Fashions for Women."

Woman, Only Inhabitant of Town, Works to Transform Sand Wastes

LLANO, DEL RIO, Calif., Jan. 6.—Although Llano Del Rio is on the map of the Mojave Desert it is but a collection of ghostly shacks, houses, tenantless and crumbling to dust and populated only by a single woman—a typical daughter of the sand wastes.

In this maze of ruins that once was the heart and the hopes of the communist movement in America, reigns Mrs. Lydia Nixon, 58, who operates a small gasoline station and outfitting store—twenty miles from the nearest human habitation.

"Tin can" tourists and desert "rats," perhaps only one or two of them a day, stop at her small oasis in the sands for water, gasoline and groceries and then pass on to where the dancing heat mirages play tricks with the eyes.

Only One Remaining

Mrs. Nixon is the sole survivor of this village that once boasted 2,000 souls. When the mighty dream bubble of the communistic colony of which Job Harriman was the head burst three years ago, the population moved out en masse, but she remained with her husband. The water failed; the refractory land blenched and parched still more under the merciless midday suns; irrigation ditches choked under the dust and the crops died.

Gradually the sands of the great Mojave desert were crowding out the lawns of Llano. Every agency of nature rebelled against the village of deserted houses. Travellers shunned its desolation, but still the Nixons stayed on. Their faith in communism had gone, Mrs. Nixon said, "but our faith in ourselves never wavered."

Horrifying Discovery

One day as she was drawing water from a well almost a mile distant, she stumbled over the body of her husband who had fallen off his horse and died. She didn't cry; she didn't scream. She chased away the carrion buzzards that hovered over him and she buried him where he fell, near a heatless sagebrush that cast a meager, pitiful shade.

"I had only $35 to my name," said Mrs. Nixon. "There was nothing for me to do but to start life all over again. I stocked up my 'dobe home with a small line of groceries. I bought a barrel of gasoline and waited for the tourists and 'rats' to come."

Out of the house that Job Harriman, communist leader, had built for himself she made a garage and boarded occasional desert "lizzies". What had once been a community clothing factory she converted into a "Hotel Llano" where travelers stayed who feared the sandy desolation at night.

Amid a Gnawing Quietness

All alone she has fought the terrible quietness of the desert nights for two years—alone, except for her dying city of mud walls. As a result of her labors she has earned and saved $1,000. When this money has grown sufficiently she hopes to pipe water ten miles to Llano where now she has to cart it over a rutted trail. She wants to make of her hot paradise the flower of promise that died in the budding.

"When I have money enough," declares Mrs. Nixon, "I want to bring large families to my city of rent free houses and no occupants, and I want to hear children playing about the 'dobe huts once more."

And because she is sincere in wanting those things to happen, Mrs. Nixon, who is not afraid of work or the perils of the desert will continue serving desert "rats" until she can pipe water to ghostly dry Llano on the Mojave.

RELATIVES GET WORD MAN, WOMAN ARE SAFE

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hilty, Lansing, Mich., in Georgia Train Crash

Relatives here have received word of the safety of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hilty, of Lansing, Mich., who were en route here on the Ponce De Leon, crack train of the Southern Railroad, to spend Christmas, when it crashed into the Royal Palm near Rockmart, Ga., Dec. 23. Mrs. Hilty was not injured aside from minor bruises and nervous shock, and her husband sustained cuts on his head and face and a badly bruised shoulder. Mr. Hilty is at Wesley Memorial Hospital, at Atlanta, Ga. They plan to come to Marion within a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilty were in the dining car and had just ordered dinner at the time of the crash, and are two of four people of 24 in the car who escaped with their lives. Mrs. Hilty was thrown under the table which protected her from the falling glass. Her husband was thrown backwards on the floor in the aisle and two dead bodies on him. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hilty could reach up and touch the rods of the car on top of their train. Both crawled out through a window, under the other car and dropped a distance of six feet to the ground. They were among the first out of the car and were taken back on the rescue train.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilty recovered all their baggage. Mrs. Hilty lost a bag containing $30, and later found the bag without the money. Mr. Hilty lost a note book and a gold pencil.

Relatives of the family are Mrs. Alonzo Daniels, Cauby-et, Mrs. Delmar Mulvaine, 488½ W. Center-st, and Pearl Garn, 554 Henry-st, this city.

SOLONS URGED TO ESTABLISH ENTRANCE EXAM

Enrollment in State Colleges Increasing at Phenomenal Rate

Columbus, Jan. 4—Recommendation that the Ohio legislature this winter make provision for establishment of a "state board of college entrance" is contained in a partial report submitted today to legislative leaders by the joint legislative committee on taxation and economy. The committee recommends that the proposed board be authorized to require entrance examinations for all applicants for admission to the undergraduate courses in the state universities and normal schools, and that no applicants for admission who have not at least ranged in the upper two-thirds of his, or her, school be admitted without such examination.

Committee members pointed out that enrollment in the state institutions of higher learning, and in most of the privately supported schools "has been increasing at a phenomenal rate during the last decade."

Will Continue

This rate of increase, they believed, will continue, unless checked by legislative action.

"The state law now provides that all graduates of first grade high schools are eligible for entrance, without further qualifications, to the state supported schools," the committee's report reads. "Therefore any limitation upon enrollment is a matter of legislative policy."

"It is believed that a truly democratic concept of the state's responsibility in furnishing higher education is carried out if the state furnishes the opportunity to all who give reasonable assurance of ability and inclination to utilize such opportunity profitably," the report declared.

Registers Opposition

The committee announced that its recommendation was prompted by "scholastic failures in state supported institutions; undesirable effects of admitting any considerable number of unqualified students; predicted enrollment growth; the state's financial conditions and recommendation of university authorities for a limitation of enrollment."

The committee registered opposition to any increases in student fees because "economic restrictions on attendance should be as moderate as possible," and because "information indicates that a large percentage of students now finds it necessary to help meet, through gainful employment, their necessary expenses."

MARION WOMAN REPORTS SEEING FIRST ROBIN

Mrs. Addison Bain, Matron of Detention Home, Discovers Bird in Tree

If it is true that robins are the heralds of spring, spring is coming despite the sneezes, coughs, and colds that betray the wintry air, for a fat, cheery robin perched in the tree in the side yard of the Detention Home, Wallace st, and remained there for about an hour Sunday morning, according to Mrs. Addison Bain, matron of the home.

On a branch several feet below the bird was an improvised table arranged for the birds on which Mr. and Mrs. Bain place crumbs from time to time, and although the many other birds about, largely sparrows, frequently alighted there, the robin haughtily remained in his perch.

CASE OF GIRL SLAYER GOING TO GRAND JURY

Negro Re-enacts Entire Crime Before Group of County Officials

Joseph Cash, Barberton, Ohio, confessed slayer of Pearle Purvis, whose body was found burned and broken in the Big Miami River last October, will be taken to a Hamilton County grand jury on Saturday, it was announced by County Prosecutor Charles P. Taft II today.

The negro yesterday re-enacted the crime before a group of county officials, including the slayer's four sons, he seeking the "confession" signed January 2nd when the children were in Valley Junction street car, to the time he tossed her body from the West Water River trestle, which is located over the Big Miami.

Cash has not yet been charged with the murder, but today was being held under a $5,000 bond on a fugitive charge pending grand jury action in the murder case.

The Purvis girl was one of a family of nine children of a farmer near Lawrenceburg, Ind.

GIVES BIRTH TO FIVE CHILDREN IN ONE YEAR

In less than a year, Mrs. John Johnson of Knoxville, Tenn., has given birth to five children. Twins were born in the early part of 1926; now, the stork has presented her with triplets. Mrs. Johnson is 28 and her husband 33. Photo shows Mrs. Johnson and children in a Knoxville hospital. The triplets are named Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

OKLAHOMA GIRL WINS HEALTH TEST BY SKIN OF TEETH

"By the skin of her teeth" Lola Parsons of Lawton, Okla., is a health prize winner in competition with students from eight counties. She tied with three other girls and the judges were stumped until they examined mouths. All had good teeth but Lola had the healthiest gums. She won $25 and a tooth brush.

H. E. HILL HEAD OF IMPORTANT BODY IN HOUSE

Named Chairman of Committee on Benevolent, Penal Institutions by Representatives

H. E. Hill, representative from Marion County, will be chairman of the house committee on benevolent and penal institutions in the eighty-seventh general assembly. His appointee of another of this committee, one of the most important on the legislature, it was announced yesterday by O. C. Gray of Canton, speaker of the House.

As chairman Mr. Hill will direct sessions and deliberations relating to the management of all of the state's penal and benevolent institutions. They will be expected to be of exceptional importance during the present legislature, also due to the fact that several bills intended to improve the management of the various institutions are scheduled for consideration by the General Assembly.

Assembly Convenes

The assembly convened in Columbus yesterday morning and both Senate and House completed their organization at noon time. The speaker of the house, president pro tem of the Senate and other officers and floor leaders had been chosen in party caucus held on Dec. 1 here and the slates agreed upon were promptly approved yesterday.

Among the Senate appointments which became effective at the organization session was that of Ralph D. Cartier of this city as counsel clerk to the senate. Cartier, a student at Ohio State University, is a son of Attorney Fred L. Cartier of this city.

Five Bills

Five important bills were introduced at the opening session of the house, four of these were proposed by an outside interest and the fifth by C. P. Lee of Galion and sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Under the provisions of this bill pensions would be granted to persons who have reached or passed the age of 70, have resided in the state at least 15 years, whose income has not been more than $300 a year and who possess property or money valued at not more than $5,000. The pension payment is fixed at $200 annually.

Checking and payment of pensions would be placed in the hands of county auditors.

A similar pension proposal was defeated several years ago after being submitted to a vote of the people.

However, no one should fall into the delusion that the proposal to make college coaches members of faculties embraces as a part of the plan the idea of hiring coaches at faculty salaries.

Speaking of baseball, it may be said that, at the worst, no business should be judged by the crooks who happen to be engaged in it.

It's mighty decent of Aimee Semple McPherson to break into the lecture business instead of vaudeville, where so many of us might have to listen to her to get to the other acts on the program.

A Detroit pastor refers to Henry Ford as a "personality killer," but to refer to us true aristocrats of the land as personalities will bring little comfort to us after we are dead.

If there is any truth in the report that congress is disinclined to investigate the baseball scandal—or any old thing, for that matter—it goes to indicate that congress turned over a new leaf with the new year.

The receipts of the postal service during the Christmas season were $18,000,000. With Uncle Sam lightening their burden like that, it's little wonder that old Santa's reindeer "pranced" over the snow and the ice.

A New York astrologer predicts that there will be trouble in Herrin, Illinois, during the present year, which comes pretty close to the popular conception of playing safe.

The more scandals in the sport world, the more inclined we are to see merit in the position of the fellow who said that, if he ever found he just had to gamble, he would play poker and have the fun of losing his money himself.

The Charleston Post says: "If the average taxpayer had to contribute as much to the support of his national, state and city government as he does to his automobile, there would truly be a revolution." But the average taxpayer has the satisfaction of running his automobile, while he doesn't get even so much as a look-in at running the national, state or city government.

Great Battle Against Communism.

Vice President Matthew Woll, of the American Federation of Labor, has again defied the Communist party and the Trade Union Educational league, of which William Z. Foster is the head, to continue their efforts "aimed at the destruction of the American labor movement for the glory of the Third International of Moscow."

The defiance of their efforts and the denunciation of all Communists and other bolshevik agents was uttered by Vice President Woll at a meeting of cloak workers in Cooper Union, New York City, one night last week, and was followed by scathing arraignments of the same classes by other federation leaders, among the latter being Hugh Frayne, New York representative of the Federation, who said that, while the American Federation of Labor did not like to become involved in a struggle where workers fought against workers, the federation would fight its enemies wherever they might be.

"We say to the Communists," Frayne declared, "that workers though they may be, we do not hesitate to fight workers who are bent upon a policy of destruction of the labor movement." He said that the cloakmakers could have made gains without the necessity of a strike or the sacrifice of one day's work. Referring to Communist leaders as "mushrooms that grow up in the night," Mr. Frayne asserted that "any fool can call a strike, but it takes brains to settle it."

This city is not what may be called a union center. The greater number of our industries are open shops. There are many among our people who do not see merit in the organization of labor, but regardless of these facts, all of us should be fair-minded enough to pay tribute to the American Federation of Labor for the splendid fight it is waging, and successfully waging, against Communism and all other isms of the direct-action order. No organization in the land is doing a greater work for law and order and good government and against mob violence, sabotage, arson and anarchy.

German Ship of the Desert.

It was but a few years ago that a daring Frenchman, after many hard-ships, succeeded in driving a motor car across the desert of Sahara. The car in which he made the trip, because of the fact that it was the first of the kind, is now in the invalided in Paris. Very ordinary looking touring car so far as the body is concerned, but the propelling portion is very similar to that of one of the small Caterpillar caterpillar shovels, save that it is far lighter. The trip of the Frenchman was merely an exploit. The exploit was accomplished, but the accomplishment demonstrated that motor cars as the one used by him could not be operated profitably for commercial purposes.

France has the honor of making the first motor trip across the Sahara. Now Germany is planning to take to herself the honor of utilizing the motor successfully for commercial purposes across the same desert, and incidentally getting as much financial return out of the operation as possible. To this end a German company is building at Kiel such a conveyance as never before ran upon wheels. It can hardly be called a car. It is rather a ship, hundreds of times the size, but of no resemblance to the "ships of the desert" the camels now employed as desert freight and passenger carriers.

The new craft is almost 300 feet long, twenty-eight feet broad and stands fifty feet high, resting on four huge wheels nearly forty feet in diameter which greatly resemble the paddle wheels yet employed in some of our largest and fleetest lake and river carriers. The Berlin cable describing the craft or car, call it what you will, says:

"It is calculated that these wheels will take kindly to the desert sands and skim over them easily and lightly, for the estimated speed of the new land-ship is about twenty-miles an hour under average conditions, with a slowing down to perhaps less than ten miles if the sands traversed are very soft and deep.

"Powerful gasolene engines supply the motive power.

"The craft is intended to speed its way across any desert area, independent of highroads or even trails, taking an airline from start to destination. It is designed primarily for passenger traffic, with accommodations for 300 persons, but with capacity for fifty tons or more of freight. It bears a strong resemblance to a medium-size ocean liner, with pilot house and bridge and searchlight at the bow."

It is hard to believe that hard headed Germans can figure that such a car will prove practical. They, as a people, are not inclined to mechanical dreams impossible of fulfillment. Yet nothing like it has ever been known in the history of man, the only near approach being the theoretical ship of the late Mark Twain, who planned stilts in addition to the paddle wheels of steamers to make Missouri river traffic more dependable. Were the story sent out under the date of April 1, it would be more easily understood. Yet we can not overlook that gun, every trace of which has disappeared, save the marks it left on Paris, seventy-five miles away.

The trouble with the current newspaper references to the proper pronunciation of sheik is that they come too late to be of value to those who take pride in their pronunciation and are wasted on those who do not.

We will says this in support of the contention of the extremists who advocate a continuation of the poisoning of liquor; mighty few who imbibe the stuff continue to drink.

Bishop Manning, of New York, says the end of the jazz age is in sight, but before we start the celebration, Bish, it might be well for you to state the size and power of the telescope you used.

The Good Book says in substance that the winds are tempered to the shorn sheep, and while we do not question we still can not help feeling that with both congress and the general assembly in session there's bound to be a lot of excess wind, and heaven knows we've been shorn all right.

A sport writer remarks that the charges in the recent ball scandals are made by discredited players seeking revenge. Maybe so. Still, we could hardly expect the saints of the game to confess offenses of which they are not guilty.

The girls of an eastern college are said to be writing verse with their toes. Even at that it may not be so bad if they depart from the usual practice in writing so called poetry and utilize as well their brains.

Despite the fact that millions of lives have been sacrificed and a property loss of many billions suffered "to make the world safe for democracy," there is a grave chance that a number of European lands may revert to a monarchial form of government simply because they have been unable to produce a democratic head possessed of the consideration and spirit of justice displayed by the rulers dispossessed.

Poems That Live.

RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM.

Now the New Year, reviving old desire,
The thoughtful soul to solitude retires
Where the white hand of Moses on the bough
Puts out, and Jesus from the ground suspires.

Iram indeed is gone with all its rose
And Jamshyd's Sev'n-ring'd cup, where no one knows;
But still the vine her ancient ruby yields,
And still a garden by the water blows.

Come, fill the cup, and in the fire of spring
The winter garment of repentance fling:
The bird of Time has but a little way
To fly—and lo! the bird is on the wing.

The worldly hope men set their hearts upon
Turns ashes—or it prospers; and anon,
Like snow upon the desert's dusty face
Lighting a little hour or two—is gone.

I sometimes think that never blows so red
The rose as where some buried Caesar bled;
That every hyacinth the garden wears
Dropped in its lap from some once lovely head.

Ah, my beloved, fill the cup that clears
Today of past regrets and future fears:
Tomorrow? -Why, tomorrow I may be
Myself with yesterday's sev'n thousand years.

Oh, come with old Khayyam, and leave the wise
To talk; one thing is certain, that Life flies;
One thing is certain and the rest is lies;
The flower that once has blown forever dies.

—Edward Fitzgerald.

WHY DON'T THESE COLUMBIA COLLEGE PROFESSORS LET A SLEEPING DOG SLEEP?

Light Dress Makes for Sturdiness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A few years ago Professor Leonard E. Hill, a noted physiologist of London, gave a lecture on dress. He spoke to an audience of women and advised them to wear as little as possible.

That is the way the dispatch put it. The doctor might have said, with more appropriateness, it seems to me, that he approves the present vogue. Certainly the women do not need to be advised "to wear as little as possible." Already they are wearing so little that to wear less would be a reversion of the styles of the Garden of Eden.

Perhaps you would like to know exactly what Professor Hill said. Here is an extract from his speech:

"I have no objection to low necks and bare or silk-stockinged legs as long as they are reasonable. Talk of 'pneumonia blouses' is all nonsense. No girl ever caught pneumonia wearing a low blouse. It hardens her and helps her to resist such diseases.

"Silk stockings and short skirts are good things, especially artificial silk stockings, which allow ultra-violet rays to penetrate to the skin. Artificial silk is better than natural silk because you can get sunburnt through it.

"Men are more coddled than women. It would be a great advantage if men got rid of their collars and took to open necks. Things are drifting that way. If men would go about in knickerbockers or running shirts it would be to their good.

"With modern methods of education and constant exposure women seem to be becoming the harder sex. Some day we may all be ruled by women."

I find myself in almost complete agreement with the professor. There can be no doubt that coddling is a mistake. Women have demonstrated that their dressing does not undermine the health.

Now for goodness sake, don't begin to take off your thick garments if you have always worn such. It is only because women have habituated themselves to scant attire that they get along so well. If you started tomorrow to conform to the extreme styles you would be in the hospital by the end of the week.

But, making it a practice to go about with low neck, sheer waist, short skirts and thin stockings, renders you immune to the effects of cold. Just as your face accepts the chill and storm, your body can be trained to accept the weather uncomplainingly.

I do believe, however, that the sensible woman won't overdo the matter. Loose fitting, but comfortably warm, outer garments can be slipped on without disturbing the dress. It is a mistake not to have such additions to the wardrobe.

Another thing, too, there must be some protection for the feet and legs in wet and stormy weather. One of the famous rubber factories is turning out shoe coverings in many different colors, all of them light in weight, capable of being washed inside out and so thin as not to be disfiguring or uncomfortable.

By all means, let's not be coddled, but let us be sensible, too. Copyright, 1927.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A rubber trade magazine kindly quotes the Way of the World. Perhaps that may account for a request for repetition here. The paragraph was written some time ago. The writer believes it is still applicable to human affairs.

"When you restrain yourself from relieving your feelings at the expense of somebody else, when you restrain yourself from making somebody else unhappy for the satisfaction of speaking your mind, you prove that you have advanced out of the hair-trigger stage of pre-historic man. Man's earliest ancestor didn't stop to think.

"Stopping to think is the true test of civilization."

"What is his weakness?" a friend of the writer asked during discussion of a man in a position much too big for him. The answer was:

"He is not big enough to have a weakness."

The sadly slow progress we make toward a better day in this world is not due to the people who have weaknesses of one kind or another. It is due to the overwhelming number of namby-pamby folks who never get into anything—good or bad.

Here is a thought for a beginning year, worth more space than it takes to tell it. It is from a book by Peddicord:

"How to keep one's heart in the midst of life's stress and maintain an undiscourageable front in the face of its difficulties is not an achievement which springs from any thing that a wise boy can demonstrate or logic can confirm. It is an achievement of faith."

The writer once knew a woman who led a singularly useful life. She was a woman of high character and greatly interested in religion. Asked once how she proved her religion and her faith to her own intellectual satisfaction, she said:

"I do not have to prove anything. I simply know that in my life I have come to places where I could not go on under my own power and nothing pulled me through."

That is an achievement of faith.

Who's Who and Why.

WILLIAM SPRY.

When the Chippewa Indians presented the United States government recently with a claim involving property valued at several millions of dollars in Michigan, on the basis of their having originally owned half of the entire state, William Spry, former governor of Utah, and now commissioner of the general land office at Washington, was presented with the problem of searching out the justice of the claim.

He is said to be one of the busiest men in Washington for his department is continuously deluged with claims filed by heirs of white settlers and the Indians one of which go back to the old land grants to Spaniards in California. Many others involve grants at the close of the civil war and hundreds of claims are brought in the name of individuals or tribes of Indians.

William Spry was born at Windsor, England, January 11, 1861. He came to America in 1875 and was equipped with nothing more than a good school education for his public life here. After a little experience at stock raising and farming he became county collector for Tooele county, Utah, in 1894, and during the next ten years held a number of relatively unimportant offices. In 1906 he was appointed United States marshal for Utah and in 1909 was elected governor of the state. He held this office until 1917. Since 1921 he has been commissioner of the general land office at Washington. His home is in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

It's about time to spring another Scotch joke, don't it? Well, the trouble is that I haven't heard a real bad one lately, until last today. A fellow was talking about Scotch weddings and he said he had a friend in Scotland that had a big wedding, but wouldn't have it at the bride's home. He said nothing would do but he must have the marriage ceremony performed on his own back porch, at his country house.

The preacher thought this was a queer way to be getting married, but he had heard a lot of queer things, so he didn't refuse to marry the couple.

"But I'd just like to know why you want the ceremony on the back porch, with so many guests and all." Why, most of the guests will have to assemble in the back yard, won't they?"

"Yes, I'm the back yard, mon! Ye see, I ha' monny chickens, an' they'll na' let the rice go to waste."—Copyright, 1927.

Q. When will the Louvaine library be finished? R. R.

A. Last spring it was announced that the funds for the completion of the library at Louvaine are at hand. The fund totals $1,000,000. It is expected that the building will be ready for dedication in June or July, 1927.

Q. Did Lincoln have an appropriation for traveling expenses when he was president? J. R. R.

A. In the days when Lincoln was President no traveling expenses were provided for by congress. About $2,000 a year was appropriated and known as a contingent fund. From this bills for stationery, printing, etc., were paid, so it is easily seen that little was left for traveling. Usually, there were no traveling expenses for the president as he traveled complimentarily. The Act of March 4, 1907 provided for an annual appropriation of $25,000 for traveling expenses for the President. This was the first actual appropriation for the purpose. This was in the administration of Theodore Roosevelt.

Q. How many years was Ty Cobb with the Detroit club of the American league? A. L. M.

A. Cobb never played with any club of the American league other than the Detroit club. He was with this club for twenty-one years—fifteen as a player and six as a player-manager. His future plans are not announced.

Q. Are the American crawl stroke and overhand stroke the same? S. J. M.

A. The American crawl stroke is a fast rear-drive and a slow arm pull—that is from a four to ten-beat kick to one-arm pull. You no doubt refer to the double overarm stroke which is commonly called "trudgeon" stroke. The only difference between this stroke and the American crawl is the kick. The scissors kick is used with this stroke.

• • •

Q. What part of the cost of a garment is the cost of the dye? F. M.

A. A census of dyes for 1925 gives such data. The average cost of the dye in a man's felt hat is one an da quarter cents.

On the Pacific Slope.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Los Angeles, Jan. 4.—Pete Kyne once told me of the California desert rat who, after looking New York over spent a post card back to a friend in the foothills reading: "This looks like a permanent camp." The same may be said of Los Angeles. It seems a permanent camp.

There is no evidence of hasty mushroom growth. It looks new, but as secure as the surrounding mountains. People here have the hang of hospitality more than any city I know. It surpasses Paris of the days when it didn't owe money.

The stores and shops equal Gotham's in splendor. It is a metropolis mounting to a second million. Jostling, milling and tingling with life. Everybody owns an automobile—even an office boy from the Examiner who dropped around to my hotel today came in his own car.

Most of the hotel bell boys are from New York having come out here to rear their families in the sunshine in preference to grim tenement catacombs. Newsboys, too, are those whose leather lunged cries of murder and tears once rang down Broadway canyons.

There is an old gag that Los Angeles is "the capital of Iowa" because of the number of Middle West retired farmers who drift here. They are in the minority, for Los Angeles is overwhelmingly suffused with the vitality of young blood. Rarin' to go.

Nowhere has the cafeteria achieved such opulence. Los Angeles carries a tray, eats cheaply and thus has plenty for gasoline. In some yourself palaces are adventures for the lone who trundles his silver platter along on a link rail to select temptingly displayed dishes and carries them to his table.

But being etiquet permits pointing—in cafeterias and at real estate. Eating is not all, however, done in a cafeteria clatter. There are soft toned cafes with muted jazz in profusion.

• • •

The crowning insult is to ask for alligator pear in a Los Angeles cafe. In New York that delicacy is $1.50 a set, throw or portion. Here the alligator pear is the avocado and if you don't call it that the waiter is likely to tear off his apron, slam down his try and rush to the kitchen crying—not angry, but terribly, terribly hurt.

• • •

Novelty cafes stud the expansive boulevards. There are jail cafes whose barred exteriors resemble a county hoosegow. Waiters are in prison stripes and diners eat in cells along "Murderers' Row" or "Pickpockets' Paradise." Also such as "The Zulu Hut," "The Bull Pen"—with matador waiters—"The Ice-Cream Freezer," "The Stable" and others which are a replica of windmills, ships, street cars and movie studios. Dollar chicken dinners, served on paper plates and scant in service, are the best in the country.

James Woods, the hotel man, was our host at a dinner dance of the Mayfair club—an offshoot of the Manhattan theatrical and movie organization. Nilsson, Earle Williams, Charles Murray, Jack Holt and Mrs. Holt, Jack Conway, Bebe Daniels and Ben Grauman.

In the gathering Rialto obscurely and darkly only occasionally was Fatty Arbuckle who is rounding out what is left of his career as a director under the ironical name of Will B. Good. There is a noticeable hurt, stricken look in his eyes. He is a cloistered clown pal of Scandal's terrific price. He probably does not need my pity, but I pitied him just the same.

At another cafe I saw Raymond Hitchcock with a monocle clapped in his eye that had the goodness of a porthole in a ship. Ritchey tells me he feels twenty years younger and looks it. He loves California. The movies have chained him and the legitimate stage may never hear his rich husky voice again. He is one actor who has never touched a drop of liquor or smoked a bit of tobacco in his life. And he's had a lot of fun, too. Copyright, 1927.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Friday.

Forty towns in the Northwest were without coal.

Miss Anna Blaich returned from a visit with Bellefontaine friends.

Misses Mabel and Clara Leffler, of south State street, returned to Oberlin to resume their studies.

Apples were selling at eighty cents a bushel.

But little damage was reported done by the electric storm of Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

The Star reported that Marion had failed to land the annual district Labor day celebration.

An attack of hiccoughs which Dr. J. H. Criswell had suffered for the three days preceding was stopped.

The Star reported that, the day before, Mrs. Christian Zieg had been elected president of the Ladies' society of the Reformed church; Mrs. Jacob Blaich, president of the Ladies' society of the Evangelical Protestant Salem church, and Mrs. Paulina Rentschler president of the Ladies' Aid society of the German M. E. church.

Tribute was paid to the memory of the late Adam Free by the Ladies' Aid society of the Pleasant United Brethren church.

The Star announced the death of Mrs. Samuel Blocksom, eighty-eight, one of the pioneer women of the county, at the home of her daughter south of the city, the day before.

Sixty-seven sheep on the farm of William Guthery, south of Espyville, were killed by dogs.

The water was yet over the C., D. and M. track north of Prospect.

William T. Jones was installed as chancellor commander of Marion Lodge, No. 402, Knights of Pythias.

A. G. Moss was installed as president of the Fraternal Union.

The marriage of Miss Clara A. Craft, of Columbus, and Mr. Guy Robbins, of this city, was announced as having been solemnized the night before in the Capital City.

Solomon Weiser was elected president of the Huber Beneficial association.

Fred Bartl defeated both Elmer Woodmansie, of Dayton, and William Watson, of Cleveland, in two wrestling matches at the Grand.

Quite a number of residents were prisoners in their homes on Marshall street as a result of high water.

Mainly About People.

From Budapest comes the report that Heifetz, the famous violinist, has become engaged to the Hungarian actress Jutsi Labass.

Columbus Haile, the new president of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas system, began his railroad career as a clerk in 1880.

By his own wish, Claude Monet, the great French painter who passed away recently, was buried as a villager without flowers or ceremony of any kind.

Thomas Shaw, who was minister of labor in the late Labor government in Great Britain, worked in a cotton mill at the age of eight. Entirely self-educated, he speaks several foreign languages and is reputed to be one of the best-informed men in British public life today.

For fifty years the Rev. N. F. McNeile has carried on a devoted ministry in a widely scattered country parish in England without ever having seen one of his 800 parishioners. The clergyman has been blind since boyhood, but he has never allowed his disability to discourage him or hinder his work.

Marion Needs The American Legion 365 Days in the Year

OUR GOAL

"A Club House in Nineteen Twenty-Seven"

The American Legion is organized for Community Service, not merely on Armistice Day, Memorial Day and the Fourth of July, but on every single day in the year. Peace time patriotism calls upon Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162 and The Legion Auxiliary to work with every other organization which is striving to promote better citizenship in Marion. BUT PROPER HELP IN PROMOTING CIVIC IMPROVEMENT IS IMPOSSIBLE UNLESS THE LEGION CAN SECURE A HOME OF ITS OWN. Marion needs the program of educational and citizenship activities which the American Legion has outlined for the coming year. Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162 asks the united support of Marion in its efforts to secure a club house in 1927. Here is one definite way that you can help now!

Investigate the Systematic Insured Savings Plan

Through a special arrangement with The Marion Savings Bank, 126 N. Main Street, The American Legion is soliciting savings accounts which carry a splendid insurance protection for every depositor. The plan is very simple. You make a deposit at the bank and agree to pay a definite amount each month for 120 months. Death before the expiration of the 120 months gives your beneficiary the insurance plus the accumulated savings. Interest is compounded on your savings at the rate of 4%. Accredited American Legion Solicitors will ask for an opportunity to explain this plan in detail to you. Meanwhile you can obtain complete information at The Marion Savings Bank or from an officer or member of the executive committee of The American Legion.

If insurable, protection is in force as soon as the savings account is opened.

ELECTS OFFICERS

Miss Miriam Hattendorf Named Head of Y. P. B.

The convention will be held at Xenia this year and it is expected that Marion will ask for the meeting in 1928.

Plans were made for a St. Patrick's party sometime in March. It also was decided to purchase cards to be sent to members of the organization who are ill and convalescing.

Miss Nyla Miller gave an interesting talk on "Alcohol", and Paul Brobst talked on the subject, "Nicotine". A paper, "Christian Enlightenment and Power Is a Part of the Y. P. Living

"IF I WERE YOU"

Loving

IN the days of Now and the Town of Everywhere there lives a man who is shunned by his neighbors.

Not that he is cruel. Were we to search for them doubtless we could find many to testify to kindness he has done them.

Nor is he crafty. His eyes are clear and without trace of guile, and his countenance as easily read as an open book, since expression is the mirror of his thought.

Nor in his way of living is there anything to which the world can take exception. Daily he labors long and earnestly, and nightly counts up that little bit more to add to his well gotten gains.

Kind, honest, ambitious, wishing ill to none, why then do his neighbors so admittedly avoid him? Why has not such a worthy man hosts of cordial friends?

That which costs him his popularity is his insistence upon distributing free what nobody wishes, his continuous generosity with the last thing that any one cares to accept.

Advice!

Upon every subject, in any place, any time this man lifts up his voice, and these are the words that fall from his lips:

"If I were you!"

Four little words, the alpha or the omega of his discourses, but how his neighbors hate to hear them. And can we greatly blame them? Are there many among us who lend ear to the patronizing critic?

And those four words are not index to their knowledge as the worthy man who makes them the burden of his song sore misleadingly supposes. Rather they are indicative of limited experience with things and people.

He who is truly wise knows full well that "I" can seldom if ever justly take low down the law to "you"; knows "I" taking "I" and "you" he "you" that never the twain shall meet on altogether common ground with undimmed understanding.

On the small dance floor couples were responding to the music.

ty minutes later I stood in a long narrow court fronting the large building formerly a hotel, in which the Secretariat of the League of Nations is housed.

I was surprised to find that work, even at that hour of the night, was still in progress, and that many of the windows were brightly lighted.

I applied to the concierge, who showed me some of the committee rooms on the ground floor, and in response to my inquiries said that the officials of the League invariably worked late whenever any of its numerous committees was in session which was the case for at least six months of the year. If I were interested in the League, he said, I might like to be present at a meeting of one of these international assemblies. There was, it seemed, an important committee in session at that moment dealing with traffic in opium, morphin, cocaine and other dangerous drugs, and it would be holding a public meeting on the following day. I was obligingly shown the room in which the meeting would take place, and I made up my mind to be present.

On leaving the building, I looked at my watch. I found it was still early, about half-past ten, and, having spent the morning lying down, I was in no mood for sleep.

I walked back towards the hotel, wondering what to do next, when I found I was passing the brilliant facade of the municipal Casino, or Kursaal, from the balconies of which I could hear the thrumming of a banjo and the whining of saxophones.

I made my way into the building and, after passing between a couple of tables where some kind of gambling was in progress, which from what I saw of it appeared to be excellent business for the town, I reached a long terrace set with tables in full view of the lake and the mountains beyond. In the center was a small floor for dancing where one or two couples were gyrating to the music of the band which I had heard from the quai.

I ordered a brandy and soda and looked about me for distraction. It was then, in quick surprise, that I noticed the occupants of the next table. There, ... The woman shivered slightly, and a look of apprehension passed quickly over her face.

"Don't say that, Baldassare," she said in a low voice, "It may bring you bad luck. Besides, you never know who may be listening."

The fat man gave her a playful push which sent her staggering back in her cabin.

"That's enough, my girl," he said; "you're all scared to death of that Oriental bandbox. But I know what I'm talking about. He can't touch me."

He drained a glass of champagne as he spoke, and I saw, as I had already suspected, that it was by no means his first that night.

"What I say is this," he continued; "there's the biggest snowfall yet, and all in the hands of a girl."

"That up, you fool," the Jew admonished him. "Do you want everybody to hear about it? The Theater trusth her, and that ought to be enough for you. We're all under oridrth. Why, man, what ith there to worry about? We've got the man from New York. It was Thuzuki who did the job, and the man wath taken thraight to the Theater."

The fat man chuckled.

"I wouldn't care to be in his shoes tonight," he said.

"By the way," he continued, "I understand that there were two of them. Who was the other fellow?"

"I never heard anything about that," replied the Jew.

"Well," grunted the fat man, whose momentary exaltation seemed rapidly to have evaporated, "I hope it's all right. But it's not my method. It's not my method at all."

"I athshure you," said the Jew, "that you can rely on Pinckelthein. Have you ever known that fellow to fail? And Thtella will get to uth all right. Thtella ith a clever little girl, ith Thtella."

His companion's answer was drowned in a clash of cymbals from the orchestra. At the same instant, the lights were lowered and a girl dressed in the fashion of Madame la Pompadour and carrying a basket of flowers slipped out from an unseen recess and stood poised on tiptoe in the center of the floor space cleared for dancing.

"Ah, he breathed, "Stella at last."

Today's Menu

Suggestions and Recipes Given Here For All Three Meals

The baked bean soup below is a fine way to use up the leftover baked beans. Fresh fruit might be substituted for the canned peaches, and some celery added to the menu.

Canned Peaches Oatmeal Cookies

TODAY'S RECIPES
Baked Bean Soup

Take four cups of pork and beans, three cups of water, one cup of canned tomatoes, a small onion, a few stalks of celery or celery salt will do. Cook all together until onion is done. Strain through a sieve, season to taste with salt and pepper. This makes a thick puree of very good flavor.

Important Trifles

Standard measurements are level measurements.

Don't plan a dinner without one green vegetable.

Do not use napkin rings on the table at a formal dinner.

Use ammonia in the water when washing greasy jars and bottle.

Soak the clothes in lukewarm water the night before wash day for speedy washing.

Plan your meals in advance and see if the house money does not go a great deal farther.

Light for Sewing

Place your sewing machines so the light strikes the sewing from the left. Having the machine in front of a window is not good for the eyes or the nerves.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effect.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All druggists.—Adv.

A Sure Way To Rid Dandruff

There is only one way dandruff has ever failed to be entirely destroyed, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you need), apply it at night, when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications should completely dissolve and destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied In Nostrils Relieves Head Stuffiness at Once

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed until you can hardly breathe, just freely apply a little of the cream found at any drug store (ask only for a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm) and instantly your head will be clear. Your nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear, and you will breathe freely. Dull headache, dryness and soreness will disappear. You get relief right now. It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable. Adv.

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" if cross, bilious or feverish

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

Sick Man Refuses $25 For Medicine

"Adlerika is the only medicine for gas on the stomach. I never had so much relief from any medicine I ever took and I would not take $25 for the relief one bottle of Adlerika gave me."—H. L. Hicks.

Adlerika gives the system a REAL cleansing and brings out old poisons which may have caused trouble for a long time. Unlike most medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never thought was in your system and which caused sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. Bradley's Drug Store and other druggists.—Adv.

GIGANTIC BRIDGE TO ROANOKE ISLAND, PLAN

Construction Already Started; Network of Approaches Being Considered

Manteo, Roanoke Island, N. C., Jan. 4—Roanoke Island—the picturesque birthplace of Virginia Dare, America's first native-born, and the scene of Sir Walter Raleigh's ill-fated expedition—soon will be opened up to the outside world.

"The Independent Republic of North Carolina," as it is sometimes called on account of its isolation, is to be connected with the mainland at Nags Head by a gigantic bridge approximately two miles in length.

Construction of the bridge already has been started. The structure will be completed early in 1927, it is expected. Meantime, the Islanders have plans under way to build a net-work of approaches to the bridge, connecting all parts of the island by roadway.

Rich in song, history and story, the wood-clustered island is expected to draw thousands of tourists and lovers of history and folk lore annually as soon as the span is completed, and an easy access to the island is offered.

Thousands of persons from all parts of the country were attracted to the island last August when both England and America joined in the celebration of the 350th anniversary of the birth of Virginia Dare.

Plans are under way to ask Congress for an appropriation to erect a large and lasting memorial on the island marking the birth-place of the first native-born American. A movement also is on foot here to make the Virginia Dare celebration an annual event.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

FULLY AWARE

WITH the generosity which is always hers toward praise of another woman's beauty, or gowning, Lillian echoed Dicky's exclamation of surprised admiration at my words.

"I am looking at her," she said. "Isn't she the flossiest bon bon in the box? I'm just as thrilled as you are, Dicky-bird, but it doesn't take me off my feet, because, you see, I've seen it before."

Dicky's face changed subtly.

"Where have you been stepping out to wear it?" he asked with apparent jocularity, but I knew that his quick jealousy had been aroused.

"Nowhere," I laughed, "but in my own bedroom. When it came home Lil was herself and I couldn't resist the temptation to give her a dress rehearsal. But this is the first time I've really worn it."

My husband's face cleared like magic, but there was a slight frown on Lillian's, and I knew that she disapproved of my frankness, and that she would have preferred Dicky to think I had worn the dress to some festivity in his absence.

That this was a part of her deustic plan to bring my husband to a realization of the danger of losing me, I well knew, for months ago, before I had taken up the research work for Philip Veritzen, Lillian had warned me that Dicky needed an "eye-opener" where I was concerned, that was regarding me much as he would a comfortable piece of furniture, and that I must devise something to keep his curiosity and uncertainly as to my plans very much alive.

I could not deny that I had enjoyed the experiment, but suddenly, capriciously, I rebelled against it, and was curiously glad of my husband's brightened face, and of the enthusiastic little speech with which he answered my announcement that I never had worn the dress before.

"I'm mighty glad to be the first man to escort it down an aisle," he said, and then with a speculative eye upon my face he added in a puzzled tone:

"But whatever have you been doing to yourself? You've lost years and pounds and added slathers of pep and pulchritude. Not that you didn't always have them all left at the post, but tonight I'll warrant nobody near you will even try to start."

"She's done nothing to herself at all," Lillian struck in caustically, "except come to her senses and decide not to play the hermit any longer. It's time your eyes that have been at fault, Dicky-bird. I'm glad you've committed an oculist. But cope on, Madge. I can't waste time listening to a man make pretty speeches to another woman any longer. It tosses such jealousy in my soul that I am liable to claw and scratch at any minute. Besides this contraption I've got in here," she indicated the dress box, "needs about three women to get me into it safely, Dicky, tell Katie that I shall take exactly twenty minutes to dress and she can plan accordingly."

She had estimated her time of dressing to the second. When the twenty minutes were up, she emerged, looking her usual striking and handsome self in a gown of filmy lavender, with trimmings of a deeper shade of violet.

Dicky came into the living-room but a few seconds after us, and I noted with the thrill of pride which is always mine, that he was looking unusually handsome in his evening clothes. It was quite like one of our old-time jaunts, save for the absence of Harry Underwood, and I caught myself wishing for a second against all judgment and sanity that Lillian's engaging but utterly impossible scrapegrace husband could materialize from the mysterious regions into which he appeared to have vanished and join us in our frolic.

We made quick work of Katie's dinner, and I, at least, enjoyed to the utmost the play. It was with a consciousness that I was looking my best and feeling my happiest that I alighted from the taxicab in front of the night club where Dicky had promised us the entertainment of the "masked dancer," who had stirred such enthusiasm among Broadwayites. A man's voice, angry, expostulating, came to our ears as we turned toward the building.

"Why the deuce did you wait till this time to tell me?" he asked with an oath, and as we passed him I saw that he was Jack Leslie, and that the woman to whom he was talking, who had shrunk from observation as far as she could beside the arched doorway, was Mrs. Baker, the mysterious lodger of the fourth floor.

FOR Acid Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour, gassy waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

TRY A 25c BOTTLE

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

MT. CORY GIRL IS WINNER OF PEACE CONTEST

Marion County Entry in District Elimination Stands High in List

Upper Sandusky, Jan. 4 — Miss Catherine King, of Mt. Cory, Hancock county, was the winner of the gold medal at the district state Peace Contest, held in this city at the Evangelical church, Sunday night. Miss Irene Kanode, of Crawford county was awarded second place by the judges.

The contest was far superior to that of last year with the contestants showing better training and more diligent work on their essays. Each one of the contestants from the six participating counties gave their orations with ease and marked ability. The final scores were very close.

Miss King, as the winner stood out markedly from the rest in her presentation of the essay, "The Nightmare of Nations." Her manner was so forcible, so positive and so convincing as to leave no doubt in the minds of the hearers as to the winner of the contest. Aside from winning the gold medal she received a $125 scholarship to Findlay College. Miss King will now enter the State contest which carries three prizes; $500 and a four year scholarship; second, $300 and a two year scholarship; third, $200 in cash and a one year scholarship.

Irene Karfode, of Bucyrus, winner of second place, was the first speaker, and gave as her essay "Plows and Plowshares." She ranked close to the winner in the judges report as her presentation of the essay was forceful and gripping, showing excellent stage presence.

Arlene Hull, from Morrow county, was good but not so strong in delivery and gesture as the two winners.

Evelyn Bachelder, contestant from Marion county, spoke on "A Substitute for War." She ranked high in the contest.

Alice Clapsaddle, Hardin county, gave "The Nightmare of Nations," carrying her audience almost spellbound. From a standpoint of stage presence and fluency of speaking none equaled her.

Anna Jane Miller, from Wyandot county, spoke on "A War to End War." While she spoke easily and well she lacked force to give her first honors.

RUSSIAN POLICE HOLD FANATICS FROM TIFLIS

Odd Religious Movement Paralyzes Activities in Many Communities

Moscow, Jan. 4 — Arresting 25 persons including many priests, the police of four districts of Georgia in the vicinity of Tiflis have broken up a fanatical religious movement which for nearly a year had disrupted the economic life of hundreds of farming communities and caused the loss of thousands of tons of grain. The police action cut short an epidemic of pseudo epilepsy which had disabled hundreds.

Described by psychiatrists as an extraordinary example of mass hysteria, the movement started with the report of a poor peasant, Thomas Sobadze, concerning a miracle which had happened to him. He swore to the assembled village that a pot of black gruel jumped off the table and hit him in the face.

Proves Miracle

He proved the miracle by pointing to his face. Sure enough, it was covered by black gruel. He was sure the pot had hit him because twelve years ago the Holy Virgin had appeared to him in a cloud and ordered him to dig for holy relics in a field back of the church. He had failed to obey the order, and hence came the pot to punish him.

Far from anyone venturing to suggest that he had gone to sleep and fallen into the gruel pot, everybody in the village immediately declared that Thomas had the elements of saintliness in him, and the entire population stopped all work to repair to the churchyard where they dug for relics.

A number of bones were exhumed and installed in the local church amid great enthusiasm. News of the discovery spread to surrounding parishes, and the church of Zalki became a shrine for pilgrims and the center of the greatest "religious" movement known in Georgia during the last century.

Peasant Forgot Harvests

Peasants from hundreds of miles away forgot their harvests to journey to Zalki. The Soviet authorities could do nothing to stop the migration. Its effects grew worse when an epileptic fell down in a fit before the bones and uttered cries which the crowd of spectators interpreted as messages from on high. Immediately dozens of persons in the crowd were seized by similar fits, and within a week a good fraction of the population was disabled.

After Soviet agronomes had reported that the movement threatened to spoil the entire harvest of a considerable part of Georgia, the police took a hand. They arrested the twenty-five ring leaders. All of them, taken from the provinces of Tiflis, Gorjasky, Akalkalsky and Beychalinsky, were sentenced to one year imprisonment. The women prisoners were released conditional upon good behavior.

Galion, Jan. 4—Postmaster F. E. Cook completed the year's report of business done at the Galion postoffice, today, and announced that the receipts amounted to $90,637.91. This amount is a record breaker for Galion and shows an increase of $14,000 over last year, which speaks well for the increase of Galion's manufacturers and business houses.

The reports submitted each year show a gratifying increase but this year's difference greatly exceeds that of any other. Galion ranks second of the postoffices in this congressional district in regard to yearly receipts, Marion being the only city ranking ahead. Galion's amount doubles that of Bucyrus, the county seat of Crawford county and a town having a much larger population.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and guaiacol—one of the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Majority of Marion Ball Fans Loyal to Ty and Tris Despite Charges

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

Just what is the opinion of Marion baseball fans on the alleged scandal now shaking the foundations of organized ball and especially the scandal involving Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb?

This question has been argued back and forth for the last two weeks wherever sport fans have congregated and conversations have shown that practically every fan is loyal to Ty Cobb but are rather touchy on the subject of Tris Speaker.

Ty, it seems, has always been the one great idol of the majority of local baseball followers. They can not convince themselves that the former manager of the Detroit Tigers and one of the best players ever to don a suit is guilty of throwing a game for a few paltry dollars.

Speaker Not So Sure

On the other hand, remarks such as "I wouldn't put it past Tris Speaker" have been heard on various occasions. While many are far from convinced that Speaker is guilty of being involved in a deal of the nature cited in the charges of "Dutch" Leonard, they are not as confident of his innocence as they are certain of Ty's clean playing and managing. Yet, when many who are inclined to believe that Tris might be involved, remember the small sum of money named in the plot, they have a different time convincing themselves that any one would be such a fool.

When the name of Kenesaw M. Landis is mentioned in conversation it is usually with disgust among local fans. Many are of the opinion that Landis has had the "dope" on the alleged crooked transaction for some time but has been afraid to give it out until he was again elected to the job of baseball commissioner. Others have opinions which class Landis as a "money grabber," a "show-off," and a few other similar capacities. Not once have I heard a good word for Landis in conversation with ardent baseball fans.

"Dutch" in Frame-Up

It is the general opinion in this city that "Dutch" Leonard deliberately "framed" the whole procedure on Ty and Tris, especially to bring Ty into the limelight as a crook. His motive was nothing more than revenge, local fans believe. He was fired from the Detroit club and even ousted out of the majors and holds Ty Cobb responsible for his misfortune. Leonard saw a way to get even and grabbed it, is the way most sport followers put it.

When the first news report of the scandal reached Marion saying that Cobb had admitted being involved in the crooked deal which carried with it a sum something like $200 or $400, fans read the International News statement and laughed long and loud. It was absurd that a man with the career and character of Ty Cobb should participate in such a dangerous game.

Groaning Again

Now, just as fans have formed their opinions on the first great scandal involving two idols of the baseball world, they are shocked to hear of more "black sheep" in the baseball family, if reports can be proven. The newest scandal involving Ray Schalk, new manager of the Chicago White Sox; Eddie Collins, now of the Philadelphia Athletics; Donie Bush, new Pittsburgh manager, and about 35 others, is almost too much for a true baseball fan to swallow at one gulp.

The story comes from Charles "Swede" Risberg, admittedly crooked as one of the original "black sox" of the 1919 World Series, who tells Judge Landis that the White Sox in 1917, purchased a series of four games from the Detroit Tigers. But even Risberg, in his tale of woe, upholds the baseball idol of the country, Ty Cobb, then with Detroit. Risberg assured Landis that Cobb, although then a Tiger, did not receive any of the collection claimed to have been given some Detroit players by the Chisox for "throwing" games.

Risberg Defends Ty

And Risberg also defends Tris Speaker in a statement that "there never was a better or straighter player than Ty Cobb or Tris Speaker." Many fans immediately agree with Risberg on the Ty Cobb and Speaker statement, but are loathe to believe at once that Eddie Collins and Ray Schalk are mixed in the latest outburst.

Local sport followers said today when asked concerning their opinion on the new scandal that they would draw their conclusions after all the dope was out.

Draw Own Conclusions

But is is a significant fact, that, with all the "dope" out about Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, that few are willing to believe the so-called dope and have drawn their own conclusions despite the accusations of Leonard, Landis and others.

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

JUDGE LANDIS has issued summons for 38 players supposed to have been involved in a "scandal" 10 years ago. There are not more than half a dozen of these players who are now playing ball. What does the commissioner hope to gain by his investigation. If his object is personal publicity he will gain his point, but the publicity which the game of baseball is receiving will more than likely work with reverse English.

FOR ivory alone, a balking billiard match for the world championship calls for an outlay of more than $1,200.

This was revealed recently at a meeting in the offices of the Brunswicke-Balke-Collender Company of Erich Hagenlacher, champion at 18.2; Willie Hoppe, challenger for the title, and Albert G. Cutler, who will referee the challenge match to be played at the Hotel Pennsylvania on the evenings of January 5, 6 and 7.

Only the softest and finest Zanzibar ivory is used in championship matches. It is so susceptible to "chilling," that the slightest draught oftentimes will make it unfit for use by master cueists. For this reason twenty sets—sixty of the finest ivory balls procurable and costing $20 each—have been set aside for the Hagenlacher-Hoppe match, to guard against any possible chance of a fault developing.

Joseph Carr, of Columbus, president of the Association team, probably will be retained in his position. Ivy Wingo, veteran Cincinnati catcher, is expected to be present at the meeting today. Although no official announcement has been made, it is inferred that he will be appointed manager of the Columbus team.

The match degenerated into a regular Donnybrook Fair, the players mixing freely and getting out of the referee's control.

Ireland had a similar, although less unpleasant experience two years ago and announced then that if it happened again, it would withdraw from the Union.

Two Great Upsets Feature Sixth Industrial Round

Hubers Defeat Engineers; Osgood Cagers Win From Commercial Five, 19-18

C., D. & M. Strengthens Hold on First Place in Industrial League By Defeating Marion Business College; Use Second Stringers in First Half; King Referees

GIVING the dope bucket a terrific wallop the scrappy Huber and Osgood basketball outfits last night demonstrated just how much trouble they may cause in the Marion Industrial League this season by defeating opponents who have long been considered "out of their class."

Hubers won their first league game of the season last night when they knocked off the Fairfield Engineers to the tune of 21 to 11 in a hot battle. Osgood men placed themselves on a pedestal with the Commercials looking up to them when they smacked the Steelmen 19 to 18 in one of the most thrilling skirmishes and upsets that will never again be seen on the floor here this season.

Only one big team failed to bow before an opposing force. The C., D. & M. outfit, amid much hooting, howling and razzing, showed in the first team in the second half of its game with the Marion Business College quintet and ran wild against the struggling Collegians who had held the second team to a 10 to 8 score in the first half. The final score was 37 to 18.

Irwin Stars

"Scoop" Irwin was the outstanding hero of the evening performances. Playing on the Osgood team, "Scoop" simply could not help but drop the ball through the hoop from all angles, despite the efforts of Applegett and Geissler of the Commercials to halt the piling up of points. "Scoop" accounted for six field goals and two-thirds of the points scored by his team in its great victory over the Commercials.

On the other hand, the Commercials could not register the necessary buckets to bring the score above that of the Osgoods. Time and again the desperate basketeers shot at the basket in the final half but always with the same result. The ball simply would not roll through the hoop.

Commercials Lose

Thus, with one team going "hot" and the other off on shots, the outfit that before the sixth round looked like a chief contender for the league title, looked like a miserable failure after the fatal blow was administered.

Duplicate Dope

The Huber men were tried of losing games all season and last night decided to show fans just what they could do—and they did it. Organized only a few weeks ago, the Hubers seemed never to have hit their stride until last night—and then they hit it hard. The Fairfield Engineers were the victims of the determined battlers, losing by a seven-point margin, 21 to 14.

Shine and Miley Shine

Shine and Miley were outstanding stars on the Huber team. Chenoweth also, played a great game at guard. Jones and Lingo showed the best form among the Engineers.

After witnessing the first two interesting games, fans were kept on their toes in the first half of the C. D. & M.-Business College tilt when the former team pulled the Rockne stunt and started the skirmish with the second team in action. It was a great game during the first half and C. D. & M. was leading 10 to 8 at the close of the initial portion of the contest.

Get "Razzberries"

Then in trailed the first stringers of the C. D. & M., including Miller, Torrence, Minard, Phillions, and Davis. The game was ruined for the Marion Business College and for all spectators except ardent C. D. & M. fans. The first team was welcomed with the usual razz section of "razzberries" from the sidelines. It was a walkaway for the league leaders in the final half and half the crowd was ready to leave before the third quarter had ended. The final score was 37 to 18, with Minard accounting for 12 of the points scored by the C. D. & M. in the last half.

NOTRE DAME REPEATS

Defeats Northwestern Cagers Again, Winning 27 to 21

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 4—Notre Dame staved off a brilliant rally by Northwestern's basketball team in the closing minutes of play last night at Patten gym to defeat the Wildcats for the second time this season, 27 to 21.

The Irish sank a free throw at the start of the game and after Northwestern scored one, the Hoosiers stepped out to a safe lead which they never relinquished.

LEWIS VICTOR

Chicago, Jan. 4—Ed Strangler Lewis still clung today to whatever claims he has to the disputed heavyweight wrestling title of the world, by virtue of his victory over Wayne "Big" Munn, former Nebraska football player, in straight falls at the Coliseum last night. Nearly 10,000 fans who paid upwards of $25,000 saw the show. It was promoted by Jim Mullen, Chicago's boxing impressario.

Movin' On

Paul "Tee Wee" Wanninger may be one of the ball players blessed by the return of Bill Carrigan to the ranks of the major league managers. Tee Wee Paul and Freddy Hofmann were the first two men acquired by Carrigan as part of his upbuilding plans which he inaugurated immediately upon becoming pilot of the doormat team of the American League, the Red Sox.

P. WANNINGER

Wanninger, a diminutive shortstop, made a big hit with American Association fans last season as shortstop for the St. Paul club. The Yankees had sent him there when Huggins decided the young man had no chance to play with the big town team after the acquisition of Mark Koenig and Tony Lazzeri.

Paul played 162 games with the Saints and while his fielding wasn't airtight he hit .361 and swiped 12 bases. The Red Sox are sadly lacking in batting strength and speed on the paths.

Cincinnati, Jan. 4—Word was received today of the death in Clearwater, Fla., of Charles Hammond Avery, 73. Cincinnatai, to whom credit was given for pitching on the first "curve" ball. While a student in Yale in 1874, it was said, he demonstrated to doubting professors a "curve" could be thrown.

REFORMED FIVE WINNER; LEADS JUNIOR LEAGUE

Baptists Defeat Presbyterians in Games Last Night

First Reformed Juniors ousted Central Christians out of first place in the Sunday School League last night by defeating them 27 to 23 in an overtime game. Trinity Baptists walked away with the Presbyterian game, piling up a lead early in the contest and continuing to pile up the points until the whistle finally called a halt to the massacre. The final score was 16 to 9.

First Reformed is leading the Junior Sunday School League as a result of its victory last night. The Reforms have won two games and suffered no defeats this season.

There were no outstanding stars in their game last night. Everyn man played a good game of basketball and points were evenly divided among the two players. Gillis at guard for Central Christians scored six field goals for more than half the points credited to his team.

The game ended with the score tied at 23 all. In the three minute overtime period the Reformed crew came through with two free throws and a field goal, winning by a four-point margin.

Hicklin at left forward led the Baptists to their overwhelming victory over the Presbyterians. He scored 10 field goals, Heckman at center accounted for five. The Presbyterians were completely outclassed by the snappy Baptist outfit and had not the slightest chance of winning after the first three minutes of play.

Epworth M. E. cagers were idle last night but will meet the fast stepping Baptists next week.

ILLINOIS WINS

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 4—Illinois basketball team had little trouble winning its opening Big Ten game of the season here against Minnesota. The score was 27 to 13. Illinois took the lead at the start of the game when Reynolds dropped in a short shot and from that time on were not in danger. The half ended 11 to 6 for Illinois.

Kenyon College to Meet Shovel Five Here Tonight

The long delayed battle with Kenyon College will be staged tonight in the new Steam Shovel gym, W. Center-st, with the Steam Shovels taking the floor with one of the strongest lineups of any team on this section of Ohio.

Kenyon, admitted to be one of the greatest floor machines in the Ohio Conference, and led by one of the greatest centers in Ohio college circles, will present a smooth working offense and a tight defense that will baffle the best of 'em.

Kenyon has played in three preseason games so far and has won all. One of the victories was scored over the Bucyrus Cranes, composed of Kinsear players. Fans who saw the Shovels in action against Ohio Northern know that the local team is capable of real basketball. But Ohio Northern is classed about one half as strong as Kenyon College and the game will be no walkaway.

The Steam Shovels will have the same old team functioning tonight. Bacon and Compton will be on deck as guards, Harry Schwab will fill the pivot position, and Bohyer and Bob Wilson will play forwards.

The locals have lost one out of three games this season and at the time of their defeat at the hands of Ohio Wesleyan a few weeks ago, did not have the same team that now represents the Shovel on the court.

Kenyon was scheduled to appear here a few weeks ago but failed to arrive due to a series of breakdowns. Anxious to fill the contract with the Marion team, the athletic director of the Gambier school arranged to meet the Shovels tonight. They are certain to arrive late this afternoon and fans will be treated to a splendid exhibition of basketball tonight.

A preliminary event begins at 7 o'clock and the main go will get under way at 8:15 o'clock.

HOWITZERS WIN ANOTHER, DEFEAT FRATERNITY FIVE

Beat Kappa Alpha Phis 20 to 16 in Great Battle

Led by Bolton and Kellogg, Howitzer Company cagers stepped on the gas last night at the armory and raced to victory over the Kappa Alpha Phi five, winning 20 to 16 in one of the best games staged on the armory floor this season.

Bolton, right forward for Howitzer, was the shining light on the guardsmen crew, and was ably assisted by Kellogg, guard, who accounted for four field goals before the fray closed. Between them the two lads counted all but three points recorded by their team.

Hinman and Snyder were star performers for the Kappas.

The two teams were almost evenly matched with Howitzers working under the advantage of their home floor.

BRADLEYS WIN, MUTUALS LOSE TWO PIN TILTS

Drugs Retain Strong Hold on First Place Despite Defeat

Bradley Drugs strengthened their hold on first place in the National Bowling league last night by defeating Motorcycles two out of three games and Midland Mutuals lost ground when they went down before the onslaught of Bentz Tires losing two games.

Bentz Tires took the first game from the Mutuals with little trouble but won the second contest by only five points. In the final game, the Mutuals came back with a kick and won by almost 100 points.

Metz bet the Mutuals with 197 and incidentally was the only man on the team that had over a 500 total when the match was over. Cull was high scorer for Bentz Tires, having 199 points to his credit in the first tilts.

After dropping the first game to the Motorcycles, Bradleys regained their balance and took the second fray by more than 100 points. They also won the third game. A. Baldauf of the Drugs was high scorer of the matches last night with 213 in the second game. McRill of the Motorcycles, however carried the highest total score for the evening, rolling 558 in three games. His highest total for a single game was 197.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

One day, when Uncle Wiggily had helped his wife and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy get all the little bunny rabbits off to school, and when Mr. Longears had finished his breakfast, he looked out the window of his bungalow at the snow-covered ground and said:

"I think I shall go look for an adventure."

"It is rather cold today," squeaked Nurse Jane.

"Well, perhaps I shall find a warm adventure," spoke the rabbit gentleman.

Then he put on his snow shoes and went out in the garden toward the Bungleump house, partly a stump, where Boppy Um and the six little Wogglejigs lived.

"What, no?" You never heard of Wogglejigs? I'm surprised at you! Mr. Wogglejigs are little wooden images who live in the Bungleump with Boppy and Um. And do I hear you asking who are Boppy and Um? Why, I told you, in the story last week how Boppy moved his Bungleump over next door to Uncle Wiggily, and how the bunny uncle saved Boppy's painted nose from being licked off by the rough tongue of the Fuzzy Bear. Boppy and Um were cute little wooden creatures, and Boppy, being a man was twice as large as Um. Boppy and Um had no arms nor legs but, being round, they could roll over and over like a hoop to get where they wanted to go.

So Uncle Wiggily on his snow shoes, hopped over toward the Bungleump, and soon from it he heard a sad voice saying:

"Oh, dear!"

"Ha! That sounds like trouble," said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he twinkled his pink nose. "And where there is trouble there may be an adventure. I shall look into this."

So he looked into the Bungleump and there he saw Um, the little wooden lady, standing near the kitchen table on which were pots and pans and dishes and flour and apples and the like of that.

"What's the matter, Um?" asked Mr. Longears kindly. "Is the Woozie Wolf going to lick your painted nose off with his rough tongue?"

"No, there is no Wolf here," sighed the little wooden lady. "But I can't make a pie. That's why I'm so sad! I can't make a pie!"

"Ho! Ho! Why should you be sad about that?" laughed the rabbit gentleman. "I'll get Nurse Jane to give you one of her pies," and he started back toward his bungalow.

"No! No, if you please!" exclaimed Um. "That would never do! You see I promised Boppy, when he left this morning to take Mazie, Dazie, Bumple and the other Wogglejigs to school—I promised when he came back I would have an apple pie for him. Now I have the flour, lard, milk, apples, cinnamon and everything else that goes into an apple pie, but I can't make it. Oh, dear!"

"It is because you have no hands and arms, Um, that you can't make the pie?" asked the rabbit. "If that's it I'll mix the dough for you. Please let me; I know how."

"Oh, it isn't that," said Um. "I have the dough all mixed. I mixed it by jumping up and down in it, for I can do that without hands or legs. But I can't roll out the pie crust to spread over the apples in the pie tin. I never had a rolling pin. This is the first pie I ever tried to make, and if I don't get it finished Boppy will be so disappointed! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!"

Then Uncle Wiggily had a bright idea. He looked at the little wooden lady and laughed as he said:

"Why, Um, you are just like a rolling pin yourself! Even your wooden head is round. Now, if you put the lump of dough on the table, and roll yourself backward and forward over it, you will flatten it out as nicely as if you had used a rolling pin. Try it!"

So Um jumped up on the table where the lump of dough was, and she rolled back and forth on it until it was flattened out into a big, thin sheet. Then Um flipped it and flopped it by jumping up and down and taping it, until she had put it over the cut up apples in the tin and then it was ready to put into the oven.

"Now Boppy will be happy!" said Um with a smile, and the rabbit gentleman was glad he had helped her, for it made an adventure for him. And if the five and seven cent store will buy the chunk of cheese a new hat so it can go to the football game I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's snow picnic.

INDUSTRIAL RAILROAD BONDS SHARE PRESSURE

Bulk of Selling Originates in Ranks of Professionals; Domestic Stocks Steady

Railroad stocks irregular; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds steady; foreign bonds irregular; call money 5 per cent; grain steady; copped steady; oil firm; cotton irregular; rubber steady; sugar strong; pig iron firm; foreign exchange steady.

New York, Jan. 4—Both the industrial and the railroad stocks felt the weight of aggressive selling pressure today.

The bulk of this selling originated in the ranks of the professionals, to whom the logical course of prices appears to be downward, for the time being, at least; but commission houses in Wall st report a considerable volume of liquidation and profit taking, which adds to the burden to be borne by the market at this time.

Some relaxation was apparent on the money market, when "outside borrowing" was reported at 4 1-2 per cent. In various sections of the street the official call loan rate ruled at 5 per cent, but Wall st was inclined to look for a gradual decline over the week-end. The $40,000,000 increase in brokers' borrowings evidenced the piling up of margin buying of speculative stocks, but there has undoubtedly been some shrinkage since the last tabulation.

Atchison's new 5 point decline to 163 1-4 preceded the calling of the directors' meeting at noon. Officers of the company reiterated their belief that no special dividend would be ordered on the common stock.

With the exception of the motor stocks, the sugars and a few of the specialties, the active stocks reached lower price levels today in a market which was somewhat contracted both in the total volume of sales and the number of separate stocks traded in. Nash and Hudson were the bullish leaders in the motor group, Nash advancing to 72, or more than a point above the best 1926 price.

Today's level of price for Baldwin Locomotive, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Dupont and other well-known market specialties was the lowest since the first part of December. A considerable increase in the demand for borrowed stocks in the "loan crowd" signified that the short interest had been largely extended over the past three or four days.

WARNS AGAINST SPECULATION

New York—About 30 years ago Max Crone's pocketbook was nipped severely by speculative buying, so yesterday, when his 71 years of experience spoke through his will, he enjoined his son and daughter never to use his estate for speculation on margins.

398 Unkempt Travelers Put Up In Prison In December

MARION'S free municipal lodging house, the City Prison, did a rushing business in December, the cold weather sending 398 hobos there for shelter during the month, according to the report of Desk Sergeant C. S. Wertz, completed today.

Although this kept the lumpkins piled at the prison crowded to capacity practically every night during the month, making it necessary for many of the unkempt travelers to sleep on the unyielding concrete floor, the month's business was less than that of December of last year, when the lodgers registered totalled 599.

Eight automobiles were stolen here during the month the report shows, and seven were recovered. There were 60 arrests and for searches the police answered 215 calls and received 190 complaints.

In December of last year five autos were reported stolen and six were recovered. Arrests totalled 14.

JURORS RECONVENE TO SIFT AIMEE EVIDENCE

Air Charged with Rumors and Counter-Rumors; Keyes To Decide by Jan. 10

Los Angeles, Jan. 4—With the air charged with rumors and counter-rumors, the grand jury investigating latest developments in the sensational McPherson case reconvened today to continue its sifting of "new" evidence.

Rumors from the camp of Aimee Semple McPherson and her co-defendants had it that the case might possibly be dismissed by the grand jury. There was no apparent basis for these rumors, however, beyond the hope expressed by Mrs. McPherson that such action would be taken.

From the office of District Attorney Asa Keyes came the report that the prosecutor would not reach a decision until he has fully and carefully weighed every phase of the case.

District Attorney Keyes was quoted as having said he expected to decide the case one way or the other by Jan. 10, the time set for the filing of informations in superior court against Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Wiseman.

Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio attendant of Mrs. McPherson's Angelus Temple, was scheduled in court Thursday for arraignment on the grand jury indictment charging him with a single count of conspiracy to defeat justice in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. McPherson.
